

Your rules on unsolicited faxes will harm the general communication modes of non-profits as we depend on the ability to communicate key industry data, not general commercial requests such as that of solicitors. We would appreciate an exemption as we have a specific relationship with our members and their investment in our organization is a blanket approval of our communication methods. In fact, we ask and many specify that they want faxes, not mail or even email. So please consider the special relationships involved with 501 (c) 6 organizations. Ted Smith, CAE President
